2. Citations and explanations (Rule 70.7)

The invention relates to a mobile camera telephone and a method of recording and processing an image using the mobile phone, and solves the problem of extensive wide bandwidth interface between the camera module and the application processor.

The aim of the invention is to reduce the number of components for camera modules and the size of the digital data to be processed.

Documents cited in the International Search Report:

D1: EP 1215894 A2 D2: WO 0247385 A1 D3: WO 0101675 A2

The cited documents represent the general state of the art. The invention defined in claims 1-14 is not disclosed by any of these documents.

The cited prior art does not give any indication that would lead a person skilled in the art to the claimed method and mobile camera telephone comprising an application processor including both a CPU for controlling the operation of the telephone and an image processing hardware arranged to perform image processing on the received digital raw format. This way a reduction in number of components is achieved and also a separate image processing is not required.

Therefore, the claimed invention is not obvious to a person skilled in the art.

Accordingly, the invention defined in claims 1-14 is novel and is considered to involve an inventive step. The invention is industrially applicable.
